

At some point we should have some rights. We have a bill of rights that everyone feels they can over ride and change the laws to suit their own purposes. If we don't want telemarketers calling us we should be able to elect to sign up for do not call. Give us a break we already have to pay the highest car insurance in the country and you have to practically sign your life away just to renew your driver's license the least you can do is allow us our do not call list. We in NJ have more than our share of stress, we don't need our do not call list overturned.
